Jefferson College Named Healthiest Community College Campus in America

Jefferson College is a winner of the 2016 Active Minds Healthy Campus Award and recognized as one of the healthiest college campuses in the nation.

The prestigious award, made possible through the generous support of the Margaret Clark Morgan Foundation, celebrates U.S. colleges and universities that demonstrate excellence in prioritizing and promoting the health and well-being of their students. It is the only national recognition of its kind that celebrates leadership, innovation, collaboration, and excellence in campus health.

Jefferson College was the only higher education institution in Missouri and the only community college in the United States to be acknowledged. This marks the second year that the College has been recognized by Active Minds for its health-conscious emphasis.

“Jefferson College is extremely honored to be recognized as the healthiest community college campus in America,” said President Dr. Raymond Cummiskey. “I am proud of the positive impact that we have on our students’ lives, especially efforts to improve their physical and mental health and well-being. This award reflects the collective efforts of our staff and faculty and resource partnerships with Jefferson Memorial Community Foundation, Mercy, and COMTREA to create a supportive campus environment where comprehensive well-being is a priority. As an institution of higher learning, we have an obligation to promote a culture of wellness and address the needs of the whole student.”

Students enrolled at schools that focus on campus health often find that the programs and services offered there are life changing. “I was bullied in high school and struggled with terrible depression,” says Jefferson College student Haley Arbuthnot, an art major from Arnold. “It wasn’t until I enrolled at Jefferson College that I was able to start seeing a therapist, thanks to Jefferson’s free counseling service. I’m living proof that, if provided with access to these important resources, any student can thrive in college.”

Jefferson College joins five other colleges and universities in receiving the prestigious award:
California State University, Long Beach; Lawrence University; Sacramento State; School of the Art Institute of Chicago; and the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Ohio State University is also recognized as an honorable mention recipient.

The Healthy Campus Award involves an extensive application process as well as multiple endorsements and interviews. Each applicant is assessed across eight criteria, with winners chosen by a panel of prominent researchers and health and higher education experts.

“Jefferson College stands out because it invests in students’ physical and mental health on a comprehensive scale and for the long term,” said Alison Malmon, executive director and founder of Active Minds, the national nonprofit that presents the Healthy Campus Award. “Jefferson College is a model of what’s possible when a college prioritizes a campus culture of health, safety, and well-being.”

The review panel for the Healthy Campus Award cited the following key strategies in particular regarding Jefferson College:

Service Beyond the Campus
Because Jefferson College is located in a rural area with few medical and dental services, the school not only provides health services for students, it also serves as the wellness center for residents throughout the area.

Smart Partnerships
Major lack of resources has not stopped Jefferson College. Through smart partnerships, the college offers a health clinic for medical care via Mercy; free mental health services via COMTREA and suicide prevention trainings; and fitness equipment as well as wellness, nutrition, and exercise classes thanks to grant funds from the Jefferson Memorial Community Foundation.

Strong Student Voices
Jefferson College pursues its healthy campus goals creatively and in collaboration with students. The student government is deeply dedicated to health and well-being; the campus’s Active Minds chapter actively promotes mental health awareness; and faculty, staff, and students together cultivate a climate of caring.

Some of the College’s efforts to support student health include:

- The creation of a holistic wellness program and the employment of a wellness coordinator to address seven dimensions of wellness (emotional, physical, social, occupational, intellectual, environmental, and spiritual) in conjunction with over $460,000 in grant funds from the Jefferson Memorial Community Foundation;

- Full-time student counseling services through a partnership with COMTREA (Community Treatment, Inc.);

- The establishment of an on-campus health clinic as a partnership with Mercy Hospital Jefferson;

- The renovation of the Jefferson College Fitness Center;

- The implementation of a smoke-free and tobacco-free campus environment;

- Programming and support resources such as “r u ok?,” question persuade refer, suicide prevention, and bystander intervention; and

- Student groups/organizations such as Active Minds and Psychology Club.
About Active Minds
Active Minds (www.activeminds.org) is the nation’s premier nonprofit for supporting the mental health of students. Active Minds has student-led chapters at more than 400 colleges, universities, and high schools nationwide and internationally, and is headquartered in Washington, D.C.

About the Margaret Clark Morgan Foundation
The Margaret Clark Morgan Foundation serves to improve the lives of people with serious mental illness by investing in innovative projects having national transformational impact. The foundation was established in 2001 in Hudson, Ohio, as a private grant making foundation.

Jefferson College and Arnold Tourism Bringing 9/11 Never Forget Mobile Exhibit to Jefferson County October 4-6

As our nation marks the 15th anniversary of the Sept. 11, 2001, terrorist attack in New York City, area residents of all ages are invited to touch the tragedy and heroism surrounding the unforgettable day as the Jefferson College Cultural Events and Community Outreach committee and the Arnold Tourism Commission host a special free mobile exhibit October 4-6.

The “9/11 Never Forget” exhibit is a high-tech, 53-foot tractor-trailer that unfolds into a 1,000-square-foot exhibit floor. In it are a variety of features and artifacts for interactive education of the historic day, including steel beams from the towers, documentary videos, and recordings of first-responder radio transmissions. Visitors will be guided by several active FDNY firefighters who responded to the towers on 9/11.

The inspirational travelling exhibit is dedicated to the 414 New York firefighters and police who sacrificed their lives responding to terrorists’ assaults on the World Trade Center’s Twin Towers. In total, 2,606 people died at the towers on Sept. 11, 2001, in addition to nearly 400 more on the hijacked planes and at the Pentagon.

This will be the first time that the “9/11 Never Forget” exhibit has been in the St. Louis metropolitan area.
“Most people may never make it to New York to visit Ground Zero and the 9/11 Memorial Museum, so Jefferson College takes tremendous pride in making this opportunity possible, giving people of all ages a chance to view it right here in our community,” says College President Dr. Raymond Cummiskey. “The 9/11 Never Forget mobile exhibit will be an experience that people will truly remember the rest of their lives. As a leader in higher education, Jefferson College is thrilled to partner with the Arnold Tourism Commission to bring this educational display to Jefferson County.”

It will arrive on Monday, October 3, escorted by area police, fire, EMT/EMS first-response agencies, and motorcyclists along Highway 141 to Jefferson College Arnold. Motorcyclists interested in riding in the arrival escort should call (636) 481-3636 to register.

Spectators are welcome to watch the escort along Bowles Avenue, Gravois Bluffs, Springdale, and Astra Way. Call the Arnold Chamber of Commerce at 636-296-1910 or the Fenton Chamber of Commerce at 636-717-0200 for more details.

An opening ceremony will be held at 8 a.m. the following day. The three-day exhibit will be located at Jefferson College Arnold (1687 Missouri State Road) on the lower parking lot near the Arnold Recreation Center outdoor pool. It will be open to the public from 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Tuesday-Thursday.

There is no admission fee to view the exhibit. The Tunnel to Towers Foundation, however, will accept help in its cause to keep that heroism alive by housing badly wounded soldiers and orphaned children.

Additional event sponsors include the Jefferson College Foundation, Fenton Chamber of Commerce, TR.i Architects, Drury Hotels, Sammy J Balloon Creations, Nothing Bundt Cakes, Syberg’s, Chick-fil-A, and Mercury OPC.

The Siller family started the Stephen Siller Tunnel to Towers Foundation to honor the memory of their brother, a New York City firefighter who lost his life in connection with the 9-11 attack. He was one of the 343 firefighters who died trying to rescue occupants of the towers. Off duty when the attacks began, he donned his heavy gear and, with traffic blocked, ran three miles from the Brooklyn Battery Tunnel to the Twin Towers, where he perished when they collapsed. The “9/11 Never Forget” exhibit was subsequently created in 2013 as a tribute to all whose lives were lost that tragic day.

People can visit www.jeffco.edu/911neverforget to request a school tour, register to ride in the arrival escort, or make a donation. Additional information about the exhibit is available by calling (636) 481-3636.
Law Enforcement Academy Achieves National Accreditation

The Jefferson College Law Enforcement Academy (JCLEA) was recently granted accreditation through the Commission on Accreditation for Public Safety Training Academies, a division of the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA).

National accreditation was awarded to the JCLEA through a highly regarded and broadly recognized body of professional standards and represents the culmination of a self-evaluation and subsequent review from CALEA Commissioners. The accreditation lasts for four years and requires the Law Enforcement Academy to maintain continuous compliance during the period.

Academy personnel, Accreditation Manager Paul Ferber and Office Specialist Denise Hawkins, as well as employees and staff in other departments throughout the College, were instrumental in preparing for the on-site assessment this past April. The final accreditation hearing and award by the CALEA Commissioners occurred on July 30 in Baltimore.

“I am extremely proud of the message that CALEA accreditation sends to our community and prospective students about the excellence and professionalism of the Jefferson College Law Enforcement Academy,” said College President Dr. Raymond Cummiskey. “This voluntary process shows everyone that Jefferson College not only delivers a higher level of service, but that we have procedures in place that meet the highest expectations of the law enforcement profession.”

The purpose of CALEA accreditation is to promote superior public safety training services and recognize professional excellence. The program's standards are derived from the best practices of professional public safety training academies. The accreditation program has 158 standards which cover nine topic areas. The standards upon which the Public Safety Training Academy Accreditation Program is based reflect the current thinking and experience of training academy practitioners and accreditation experts. CALEA's Standards for Public Safety Training Academies and its Accreditation Program are seen as benchmarks for today's public safety training programs.

• CALEA Accreditation requires an academy to develop a comprehensive, well thought out, uniform set of written directives. This is one of the most successful methods for reaching administrative and operational goals, while also providing direction to personnel.
• CALEA Accreditation standards provide the necessary reports and analyses a CEO needs to make fact-based, informed management and administrative decisions.
• CALEA Accreditation is a means for developing or improving upon an academy’s relationship with the community it serves.
• CALEA Accreditation strengthens an academy’s accountability through a continuum of standards that clearly define authority, performance, and responsibilities.
• Being CALEA Accredited can limit an academy’s liability and risk exposure because it demonstrates that recognized standards for public safety training academies have been met, as verified by a team of independent outside CALEA-trained assessors.
• CALEA Accreditation facilitates an academy’s pursuit of professional excellence.

The JCLEA offers three options for students seeking a Missouri Department of Public Safety POST Class A License and is the only academy in the state that incorporates the curriculum for an Associate of Applied Science Degree in Criminal Justice in two of its three programs as a way to distinguish graduates when they enter the job market. The third program, a POST curriculum only option, offers a Certificate in Criminal Justice and is limited to applicants who already have a two or four-year degree.

For more information about the Law Enforcement Academy application process, visit www.jeffco.edu/jclea or call (636) 481-3425.

College to Host Constellation and Lunar Observation Nights This Fall

As one of several educational activities in advance of the solar eclipse in 2017, the Jefferson College Physics Department will host two celestial observing nights this fall for those who want to learn more about astronomy. Both events will take place at the Baseball Field parking lot on the Hillsboro campus.

An Introduction to the Fall Constellations will be held on Friday, September 23, from 9-10 p.m. (if cloudy, the event will be postponed to Saturday, September 24). Those that attend should bring a red colored light (camping light, flashlight, phone app, etc). Participants will be provided with a star map.

The moon will be the focus of the session on Friday, October 14, from 9-10 p.m. (if cloudy, the event will be postponed to Saturday, October 15). Participants will be able to view the moon through one of the College’s telescopes.

The informative events are free and open to all ages. For questions or additional information, contact Physical Science Instructor Maryanne Angliongto at 636-481-3318 or email manglion@jeffco.edu.

In partnership with the St. Louis Astronomical Society’s library loaner telescope program, beginning September 23 the Jefferson College Library on the Hillsboro campus will have three telescopes that can be checked out by anyone with a Jefferson College Library card. For more information about the program, call the Library Circulation Desk at (636) 481-3166 (TDD 789-5772).
2016-17 PACE Series Announced - Season Passes Now On Sale

In connection with Jefferson College’s mission to provide diverse educational experiences for area residents of all ages, the schedule of events and artists has been announced for the fifth annual Performing Arts and Cultural Enrichment (PACE) series.

The 2016-17 PACE season features nearly 30 professional performances spanning a wide range of entertainment genres including nationally renowned visiting artists, instrumental and vocal musical groups, art, and drama.

In addition to the variety of performers and entertainers, the annual PACE series will also include several student-community performances such as band and choir concerts, children’s and musical theatre performances, a film contest screening, art exhibits, and a pottery sale.

PACE season passes are on sale for $25 per person general admission and $15 for students and senior citizens. Season passes can be purchased at the cashier’s window in the Student Center on the Hillsboro campus.

Individual event advance tickets are also available for $5 general admission, $2 students and senior citizens. All individual advance ticket purchases must be done in person at the cashier’s window.

For detailed information about specific PACE performances/times and season pass information, visit the Jefferson College website at www.jeffco.edu/PACE. Additional information about purchasing PACE season passes is also available by calling (636) 481-3123.
