James Doyle, plaintiff } In the Circuit
 Against } Court Jefferson
 Carvina Parker, defendant } County,

Plaintiff states that, in the year 1837, he and the Defendant, as partners, got out a quantity of ties, to wit, seven thousand —, and sold the same to Francis J. Smith, for upwards of six hundred dollars. Plaintiff cannot state the exact amount, as the Defendant delivered them, and received the money, and soon afterwards absconded, with plaintiff's part of it, the plaintiff being entitled as such partner, in doing said work to one ^{half} of said sales of ties.

Plaintiff therefore states that the Defendant owes him three hundred dollars, for money had and received to his use, and for which, with interest, the plaintiff asks judgment.
