In the Circuit Court of Jefferson
County,
Missouri

Now at this day Comes the Defendant and moves the Court to make a rule on the Plaintiff requiring him to file a Bond to secure the costs in this cause for the following reasons, to wit,

1st Because said James C. Power is utterly insolvent so much so that the costs can not be made off of him

2nd Because this suit though carried on nominally in the name of said Power as Administrator of the Estate of said McCollock is in fact prosecuted by him wantonly and through motives of malice on his part and under such circumstances as that said McCollocks ought not to & will not be held finally liable for costs in case the Plaintiff should not recover in the action,

2^d Because the Estate of said McCollock is insolvent and has been under administration for four years & ought to be & will be finally wound up & settled before this action is likely to be determined

the jury will find for the claimant

Tomer Adams,
of McCollock
vs
C. A. Newcomb

1st

The Court instructs the Jury that unless they find from the evidence that James McCollock was in his life time the owner of the Gray mare "Belle Fox" at the time of his death the Plaintiff can not recover in this action and the verdict of the Jury should be for the Defendant

The Court instructs the jury that if they find from the evidence that Mc Culloch allowed his negro man Aaron to work and earn money on his own account to have and use the same for his own benefit and to deal and transact business with others ~~without~~ as though he was a freeman that then ^{as shown by the testimony in this case} the declarations of Mc Culloch to others, that he would not allow Aaron to trade or sell the mule in question without his consent are not to be taken into consideration by the jury in determining ~~any~~ ^{defendant's} title to the mule in question and his right to sell her ^{to the defendant} ~~it not appearing~~ ~~that the defendant had knowledge of those~~ ~~declarations shown on this trial -~~

John Lewis
Refused

If the jury believe from the evidence that the negro "Aaron" was the slave of James Mc Culloch deceased and that the said James Mc Culloch in his life time gave the said Aaron a piece of mineral land to work on his ^{own} account and have and use the avails ~~of the~~ ^{and} proceeds of the same for his own use and with money earned by the consent of the master and the said Aaron purchased the mare in dispute ~~with the knowledge and assent~~ ~~of his master~~ then the title of the mare in question was in Aaron and he had a right to sell the same and the Plaintiff cannot recover of said defendant the value of said mare but will find for the defendant. -

4

The Court further instructs the Jury that if McCollock permitted Aaron to work a portion of the time for himself and appropriate the proceeds of such labor to his own use & if Aaron ~~with~~ with money so earned bought the mare Cattle Top and afterwards sold & delivered her to Defendant & if McCollock knew this and ~~did not at the time object to~~ ^{consented to} such disposition of the mare by Aaron then the title of the mare passed by such sale to Defendant whether he paid for her at the time or not & if the Jury so find ^{from the evidence} their verdict should be for the ~~Defendant~~ Defendant

Referred

Even if the Jury should believe from the evidence that the Gray mare in question was bought by Aaron with money he earned while working at the mines, by James McColloch's permission, yet if the Jury believe from the evidence that at the time Aaron let the Defendant have the said mare, he was a slave of James McColloch, and had run away from his master, and took and sold said mare without his master's consent, - then the Defendant acquired no title to said property, and the Jury should find for the Plaintiff.

2^d3^d Referred

Although the Jury may believe from the evidence that James McColloch permitted Aaron to earn some money for himself at the mines, yet the money or any property he may have bought ^{with} it, was, in law, the property of said McColloch, while Aaron was owned by him as his slave, - and hence a sale of said property by Aaron without his master's consent is void, and passes no title, and it devolves on the Defendant to show that such consent was given.

4th

If the Jury believe from the evidence that while James McColloch held Aaron as a slave, he ran away from his master, and took the mare in question with him, and without his master's consent, and that he let the Defendant have said mare, without his master's knowledge or consent, then the Defendant acquired no title to said property, and the finding should be for the Plaintiff.

Refused

If the jury believe from the evidence that James Mc Colloch was the owner of the Gray Mare in question in 1859, and that afterwards, in 1863, his Slave, Aaron, ran away, and bargained to sell said mare to the Defendant, and upon his promise that he would stand between him and his master, Aaron was induced to go to Mc Colloch's and take away said mare clandestinely and deliver her to Defendant, then Defendant acquired no title to said property by such proceeding, and the finding should be for the Plaintiff for the value of the mare.

Verdict

Under the defence set up in the answer in this case before the jury can find for defendant they must find first that Mr. G. attacked J. not only permitted Sloan to say the more in conversation with his own money and to claim her as his own, but also that he gave Sloan either a General license to sell and more or the exact authority him to sell her to defendant and under this to find the verdict must be for the ~~defendant~~ Plaintiff.

Prior to ~~the case~~ 1855 the laws of Missouri prohibited any one from ~~testifying~~ buying or selling to or receiving from any slave any commodity whatsoever, without the conceal-in-writing of the master, owner or overseer of such slave first had and obtained and unless the jury believe from the evidence that defendant bought the mare in question from Benson with the consent of McElathach, or Benson's overseer then no title passed and the verdict should be for Plaintiff
